Olweus Bullying Prevention Program is used at Deephaven throughout the school year. Weekly lessons are taught to each of our classrooms. You can learn more about our approach to bullying prevention by reading the letter attached to this week's Winds (included below).

What Is Bullying? The definition of bullying is when someone repeatedly and on purpose says or does mean or hurtful things to another person who has a hard time defending himself or herself. Bullying can take many forms, such as hitting, verbal harassment, not letting someone be part of the group, or sending unwanted messages on a cell phone or over the Internet.

Bullying does not include single incidents that result in discipline and are resolved. There is also "friendship friction" when students are having difficulty getting along with each other and the conditions do not meet the criteria for bullying.

Deephaven uses Responsive Classroom as a way of working with students. What is Responsive Classroom? It is a student-centered, social and emotional approach to teaching and discipline. This research-based approach helps create a safe, joyful, and engaging classroom where students can learn. Learn more about Responsive Classroom by clicking the link:

Dear Parents/Guardians,

Our school cares about the safety and well-being of our students. We want to make sure our school is a good place for students to learn. To do this, we are using a program called the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program.

What Is the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program?

The Olweus Bullying Prevention Program (OBPP) prevents or reduces bullying in elementary, middle, and junior high schools (with students ages five to fifteen). OBPP is not a curriculum, but a program that deals with bullying at the schoolwide, classroom, individual, and community levels. The goals of OBPP are to reduce bullying problems and prevent new bullying problems from happening. The program also works to make relationships better among students. The program is for all students, not just those who are being bullied or who are bullying others.

What Is Bullying?

Bullying is when someone repeatedly and on purpose says or does mean or hurtful things to another person who has a hard time defending himself or herself. Bullying can take many forms, such as hitting, verbal harassment, not letting someone be part of the group, or sending unwanted messages on a cell phone or over the Internet.

Parents and guardians play a key role in this program. Your child has been asked to tell an adult at school and at home if he or she is bullied or sees bullying happening at school. It will be very important that you take any bullying seriously and tell our school staff. Our school staff members are trained to deal with bullying situations when we are told about them.

Here are some ways you can begin talking about bullying with your child:

- I'm interested in your thoughts and feelings about bullying. What does the word "bullying" mean to you?
- Do you ever see students at your school being bullied by other students? How does it make you feel?
- What do you usually do when you see bullying going on?
- Have you ever tried to help someone who was being bullied? What happened? What do you think you can do if it happens again?
- Would you feel like a "tattletale" if you told an adult that someone was bullying?
- Have you ever called another person names? Do you think that is bullying? Talk more about that.
- Do you or your friends ever leave other students out of activities? (Talk more about this type of bullying.)
- Is your school doing special things to try to prevent bullying? If so, tell me about your school's rules and programs against bullying.

All students will follow these four anti-bullying rules:

1. We will not bully others.
2. We will try to help students who are bullied.
3. We will try to include students who are left out.
4. If we know that somebody is being bullied, we will tell an adult at school and an adult at home.

Please remember bullying affects everyone at school, because it affects the entire school climate. Your child might not be directly involved in bullying but still might be afraid of certain students or areas of the school where bullying takes place. Your child is probably aware of bullying problems or may have seen bullying happen. In that case, he or she is involved either by supporting the bullying or by not supporting it, either by taking action to stop it or by doing nothing about it. Children who are not directly involved have a key role to play in stopping and preventing bullying. It is for this reason that the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program is a school wide program.

Thank you,

Bryan McGinley
Principal
